

Abstract

The present invention provides both a system and method for conducting remote online and offline real-time transactions on a handheld device.